Royal Mail Update: 24-Hour Strike Over
July 2, 2007

Royal Mail has reported that the 24-hour strike by postal workers is now over, and the Royal Mail is now working hard to get back to normal as quickly as possible. This may cause some delays in service over the next few days, but the Royal Mail is taking every measure possible to minimize any further disruption. Brokers Worldwide will continue to collect UK-bound mail from our customers. Although the mail will reach the UK in the same amount of time as before, mail services within the UK will be subject to delay, as the backlog of mail is being dealt with in date order.

It is unclear as to whether there will be any further strike action regarding this matter. In any event, the Communication Workers Union (“CWU”) must give at least seven days notice of any further action, and the Royal Mail has prepared contingency plans that will be put in place in the event that this occurs.

Brokers Worldwide will continue to monitor this situation, and will provide our customers with updates as they become available.
