Mail Delivery in New Zealand Affected by Extreme Weather

August 16, 2011

As a result of extreme weather conditions throughout the country, some mail services in New Zealand have been affected. New Zealand Post has reported that the snow and ice have disrupted mail deliveries for a second day running across significant parts of the country. The NZ Post has indicated that postal staff are doing everything they can to resume mail deliveries where possible; however, road closures and icy conditions have created some unavoidable delays.

According to the NZ Post, the Christchurch Mail Centre is currently closed for at least the next 24 hours and until further notice and any mail transport in and out of Christchurch is on hold. In areas where letter boxes are frozen solid and mail cannot be delivered, mail will be returned to the branch and delivery attempted again tomorrow. A summary of areas across New Zealand with no or delayed mail delivery is provided below:
